BRACE BARBER

- WEST POINT GRADUATE
- FORMER ARMY RANGER
- AUTHOR OF "NO EXCUSE LEADERSHIP"

Starting at West Point and for the past 33 years, Brace Barber has had responsibility as a leader of people. He graduated from the U.S. Army's Airborne and Ranger Schools and served for 11 years as an active duty Army Officer in posts around the world. In that time he became an expert strategist and leader. After leaving the military he gained extensive experience and competency in building companies from idea through to success. He accomplished his missions against entrenched competitors in highly dynamic environments. Brace is the author of the popular book, No Excuse Leadership, Lessons from the U.S. Army's Elite Rangers, and the book Sun Tzu's Pattern of Power, The Art of War Organized for Decision Making.

Brace's leadership expertise revolves around how to perform effectively under duress. Leadership in the Army focuses on performing in battle. As an Army veteran he understands the environment at a deep level.

Brace and his wife of 21 years, Natasha are the parents of three teenagers. He is a 1987 graduate of West Point and the veteran of 11 years of active Army service. After leaving the Army he has been the co-founder and leader of several companies involved in tax preparation, composite armor and tactical firearms. He has consulted on leadership and strategy with countless other companies. He has spoken to corporate and military audiences including Sam's Club, West Point and the Air Force Academy. Brace and his family live near Nashville, Tennessee.

In the background of his professional life, Bruce has written and published two books and developed programs that give leadership and decision-making advantages to professionals of all experiences. He has spoken to and trained clients from America's largest companies as well as helped mid-level managers and leaders of start-ups launch ahead of the pack.
